

TONOPAH DISTRICT TO BE SCENE OF PROSPECTING AND GREATER DEVELOPMENT

Sections to the West and East Will Be Opened Up in an Endeavor to Tap Ore Bodies Supposed to There Exist.

That Tonopah is on the eve of a campaign of development that means much for this camp is now an assured fact. Both the sections to the east and west are going to be the center of prospecting on a scale that is bound to bring results. Information within the past few days has leaked out that several properties to the west of the West End Consolidated company's property are to resume operations and are to sink to great depth. Engineers eminent in the mining world have been at work for the past two months quietly studying the geological formation in that district and upon their reports Philadelphia and other eastern capitalists have placed money in the treasuries of their companies. Several hoists have been ordered and the management of one property has orders to sink to a depth to encounter the vein which is known or believed to be a continuation of the West End and the MacNamara ledges. In another instance machinery has been ordered from Salt Lake and within sixty days work will be resumed on a property that is now down several hundred feet. It is also understood that the owners of the Monarch Pittsburg will commence an active campaign of development. Such well known mining men as Eugene Howell, W. J. Harris and others who control the Seventy-six contemplate getting busy within a very short time. The West End Consolidated Extension is also considering the advisability of resuming active operations. In the minds of quite a few eminent mining authorities there is no doubt that great bodies of ore are to be found underlying the flat and a continuation of the rich ledges encountered in the West End and MacNamara continue far beyond the base of Mt. Brougher to Lockart hill.

To the east of Tonopah is the Buckeye, which is now working, and the Belmont Extension is getting into shape to do development work. The Belmont, which is now running towards the Belmont Extension, is within 500 feet of the end lines of that property. The Halifax, owned by Keith and Kearns, is likely to resume work at any moment. David Keith, who was here several months ago, in company with several engineers, and who at that time made an inspection of the property, gave it as his opinion that a search for and systematic development would undoubtedly tap rich ore bodies. The finding of ore in either of these sections would give such an impetus to mining in southern Nevada and Tonopah particularly, such as never before witnessed in any camp. Another evidence that work is to be commenced at once in the west section is a petition numerously signed by prominent mine owners and leading citizens, asking for the removal of the present garbage dumping grounds, which was submitted to the board of county commissioners and taken under consideration. Following is the petition: To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners of Nye County: Gentlemen—We, the undersigned citizens and property owners of Tonopah, and owners of mining property situated in what is known as the western section of Tonopah mining district, hereby respectfully petition your honorable body to direct the street cleaning department of our city to immediately cease the dumping of garbage, refuse and other offensive matter, in what is now known as the city dumping ground on the northwesterly slope of Mt. Brougher. Our reasons for making this request are that the development of the west side properties proves beyond

JURY'S FINDING IN OMAHA CASE

(By Associated Press.)

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 9.—"Dr. Frederick Rustin came to his death by a pistol shot by persons unknown," was the verdict of a coroner's jury which took up the greater part of two days in hearing the evidence. The jury recommended that Charles E. Davis, who was yesterday implicated by Mrs. Abbie Rice, be held and that his conduct on the night of September 1 be thoroughly investigated. Charles Davis was taken into custody this afternoon and was immediately taken before Justice of the Peace Crawford, where after an arraignment, he was released on a bond signed by his brothers. Mrs. Rice was also detained, pending further investigation.

Prominent Financier Killed in Accident

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Phillip N. Lillenthal, president of the Anglo-California bank of this city, one of the most prominent financiers on the Pacific coast, died this evening from injuries received when an automobile in which he was returning from the Gans-Nelson prizefight, collided with a horse and cart. The banker, who is an extremely heavy man, either jumped from the machine when he saw the collision coming, or was hurled to the ground by the sudden stoppage of the car, striking on his head and shoulders. When picked up it was found that one side of his head was terribly crushed and several ribs fractured. He died in a car on the way to the hospital. Lillenthal was accompanied by Gregory Wilenkin, financial agent at Washington of the Russian government during the Russo-Japanese war, and Ignace Warschansky, also of St. Petersburg, well known in Washington. A careful examination of the body tonight disclosed the fact that the death of Lillenthal was due to a wound inflicted by the shaft of the cart penetrating the left side of the chest, puncturing a lung and striking the heart.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 9.—Pending arrangements by the Republican national committee, details of Taft's intended trip through the country and plans for the Cincinnati campaign are being held in abeyance. One thing was settled about the traveling campaign and that is that the candidate will be in Chicago on October 7, where he addresses the Lake to Gulf Deep Waterway association at the Auditorium. Bryan has accepted an invitation to address the association on October 9.

CREDIT FOR THE RISE IN PRICES

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—An unusual thing about the current upward movement of prices in the stock market is the freedom which admissions are heard of the part played by professionalism. A combination of very wealthy capitalists is given credit for the summer rise in prices, and there is no disguising the belief in the large part played by manipulation in advances. There was little news today to explain the upward movements in stocks. Bonds were firm.

BRYAN WAS THE MAN OF THE HOUR

(By Associated Press.)

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 9.—William J. Bryan was the man of the hour today at Peoria. From the moment he set foot in the city at noon until his departure tonight for Evansville, Indiana, he was accorded a series of demonstrations. Within ten minutes after his arrival he was addressing a vast throng in front of the hotel. He spoke at some length upon the right of trial by jury in cases of direct contempt. During the afternoon and evening he made three speeches, the principal one at the Coliseum, which was filled to its capacity, which necessitated an overflow address in the court house square. His set speech on "The State and Nation," in which he declared in favor of state rights, received vociferous applause and every manifestation of approval.

THE BATTLER DOWNS GANS

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Battling Nelson clinched his claim to the lightweight pugilistic championship by defeating Joe Gans for the second time at Colma arena this afternoon. The fight ended in the twenty-first round, when Gans was beaten down by a succession of blows from his sturdy conqueror and failed to get upon his feet within the count of ten. Nelson forced the fighting, never giving ground and gradually battered down his older and less vigorous opponent. Gans succumbed in the twenty-first round after being unmercifully trounced upon by the lad from Hegewick. Nelson in this round rained right and left blows to the jaw and body and Gans sank to the floor. Mechanically the now defeated fighter watched Referee Eddie Smith wave his hands, apparently too far gone to hear the count. Not until the count of ten was finished did Gans with an ashen pale face, terribly cut and eyes glassy, attempt to rise. He realized, however, it was too late and feebly declared: "I have positively fought my last battle." The fight was spectacular but at no time did it appear that Gans had a chance to win. Time and again he would shoot wicked punches to Nelson's face and body, but the latter never for an instant wavered.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

Round 1—Nelson rushed to the center of the ring and put right to Gans' jaw and followed it with two straights to the face and they broke from a clinch. Nelson forced Gans back, putting a light left to the body, but Gans shot right and left to the jaw very quickly. Nelson drove a hard right to Gans' face. Gans retaliated with a right chop to the Battler's jaw. Nelson continued to bore in, to be met by several straight rights and lefts to the face. He continued to force Gans around the ring. Gans rocked Nelson's head with right and left uppercuts. Nelson went to his corner bleeding at the nose. It was Gans' round.

Round 2—Nelson bored Gans around the ring, putting two lefts to the kidneys. Gans countered with a hard right to the body. The men then fought at close quarters, Nelson reaching the stomach with left uppercuts. They again clinched with Nelson fighting strongly. He forced Gans to the ropes at close quarters and drove Gans to the center of the ring. They break away from a clinch. Gans uppercuts to jaw and sends Nelson back a foot. This did not stay the fighting Dane. They rushed in close and he kept Gans busy blocking blows. The round ended in Nelson's favor.

Round 3—As usual Nelson rushed Gans around the ring. He went in close and sought to reach Gans. Most of his blows were blocked. They fought shoulder to shoulder, Nelson doing the leading and Gans blocking. Gans broke up the clinching by shooting right and left to the Dane's jaw. However as they closed in Nelson landed left to face. Gans fought back valiantly and punched the Battler hard as the gong clanged. The round ended slightly in Nelson's favor, though Gans landed some hard blows.

Round 4—Nelson rushed in but Gans sent him back a foot with right and left to head. Nelson hit Gans in the mouth and Gans sent left to jaw, forcing the Battler into still closer quarters. Gans backed away, with Nelson hammering at his eyes. Some of the blows were blocked. Nelson forced Gans against the ropes and landed hard left to the stomach and drove short left to the face. They went to close quarters and Gans chopped Nelson's face with a terrific right, sending left to the stomach and right hard over the kidneys. They fought head to head and exchanged hard body punches, Nelson excelling. The round was comparatively even, Gans having a slight advantage.

Round 5—They went right at it hammer and tongs to the body. The Dane was not to be stopped, and notwithstanding the punches to jaw, he jumped to close quarters to put in punches to the nose. It took all of Gans' cleverness to avoid Nelson's onslaughts. Gans sent Nelson's head back three times in quick succession with right and left uppercuts, but the Dane merely shook his head and waded in for more. Gans uppercutted twice fiercely with his right to the head and a moment later sent another to the same place, all of which shook Nelson up. At close quarters Gans put in a hard uppercut to the body and blocked all efforts to counter. The gong found Nelson very badly hurt and staggering.

Round 6—Nelson rushed in fiercely, and they closed in quickly without damage, Gans was on the alert and watched all of Nelson's leads for the body, which he skillfully smothered. Nelson continued to pound away for the colored boy's stomach. He finally changed his tactics and sent right to the jaw, forcing Gans to clinch. They closed in again and Gans was kept busy trying to block Nelson's leads for the stomach and at the same time to be able to administer any punishment. Gans caught Nelson on the face and sent left to the stomach, but Nelson retaliated with a similar blow as the gong sounded.

Round 7—Nelson rushed in but was met by two stinging lefts to the face. Nelson rushed Gans around the ring constantly, but Gans met him with a terrific right hook to the stomach and left to the jaw. Nelson rushed in close, hammering away at the kidneys and stomach in which he failed to land a blow. Nelson put in two or three short arm jolts to the body and followed with left to the jaw. In return Gans staggered him with two solid right jolts to the jaw and a left to the same place. The fighting Dane was not to be denied, going right after Gans and at close range Gans swapped him to the body twice with right uppercuts and left to the jaw. The gong ended the round, Gans having much the best of it.

Round 8—Nelson closed in and shot two lefts to the mouth, which started the blood flowing from the mouth. The men then closed in, Nelson constantly playing for Gans' stomach. Gans contented himself with blocking and smothering and permitted Nelson to do all the work. Nelson worked away with rights and lefts for the body, but invariably located the man's gloves. Nelson backing up a bit left an opening which Gans took advantage of. Quick as a flash he sent in a vicious right uppercut to the jaw and they worked to close quarters, contesting every inch of the ground. Gans was kept busy blocking all through the round.

Round 9—The Dane rushed in fast and Gans backed clear around the ring. Gans slugged away at Nelson, landing two right uppercuts to the face. They are fighting at close range again, during which Nelson brought his left hand to the Baltimorean's jaw. Nelson's right leads were rather light. Nelson got in two rights and a left to the stomach as the men fought close together and the bell ended the round in the Dane's favor.

Round 10—Nelson rushed and was met with a straight right to the jaw. After some clinching Nelson uncorked a hard right swing to the jaw. Nelson quickly closed in and beat a tattoo on Gans' stomach with short rights and lefts. They continued to indulge in very close infighting with Nelson constantly penetrating Gans' guard and landing on the stomach. Gans shot a hard right to the body which he followed with short arm rights and left to the jaw. The men constantly fought head to head and shoulder to shoulder. Gans sent in two right uppercuts, in return for which Nelson swung his elbow, catching Gans on the point of the jaw. The crowd vigorously hooted Nelson. Nelson was cautioned by the referee at the end of the round, while was about an even affair.
